THE LAW OF LIBEL.

The law of libel, and its relations to the public press was very well stated in one of the Philadelphia courts some time ago by Judge Florence, a gentleman of high character and a jurist of experience and ability. The suit was brought against the editors and publishers of a paper of that city by a party who alleged he had been misrepresented and injured in consequence of an article published in said newspaper. The suit resulted in a verdict for the defendant. Judge Pierce in rendering his opinion, indicated the true scope and meaning of the law of libel when he told the jury that "the question for decision was whether the statements excepted to were proper for public information, and whether due inquiry had been made as to their verity before publication." He further states that "to hold a newspaper publisher as the insurer of the truth of every assertion he published would be an unreasonable check upon the dissemination of news. Indeed, it would be the end of journalism proper, for it is an utter impossibility to ascertain the absolute truth of every statement made to reporters in the prosecution of their daily duties. All that can be done is to use all proper diligence in obtaining information from reliable quarters, and no newspaper publisher of any reputation objects to a responsibility of that extent. The whole matter resolves itself into the question of intent and due care."

The Mining Law.

We copy the following from Copp's Land Owner for August, published at Washington City. The Land Owner is conceded to be high authority on all matters connected with land, mining, patents, etc., and from it we copy the following, which is of great interest to miners:

Although we have from time to time called attention to the provisions of the act of Congress of May 20, 1872, and have published the instructions of the General Land Office Commissioners under the law for the further information of miners and others who are taking advantage of its provisions, we give place to some observations on the construction of the relocation clause, and suggestions as to the method of location. In the first place, what claims are subject to relocation? They consist of two classes; first, those which were located prior to May 10, 1872; second, those located after that date upon which the necessary amount of work has not been done. The time when the work should have been begun on the first class expired on the 1st of January, 1875. If, however, a claimant has expended $100 on his claim since May 10, 1872, his claim was not subject to relocation on January 1, and he has the present year within which to make his second expenditure, provided he has in all respects complied with the local laws, this being the effect of the decision rendered by the Land Department last month. Claims located after May 10, 1872, are not subject to relocation, provided the claimants have expended $10 for each hundred feet claimed for each year since their location; consequently their years are not according to the calendar, but date in case from the date of location and record. If, however, a proprietor or his representative appears and begins work after the time of limitation has expired and before a relocation, his claim is not subject to forfeiture. In the above, the term relocation has been used for the sake of clearness, but in fact it is not a relocation, but is considered as a new location under the provisions of the act, the law declaring that the claim or mine upon which such failure occurred shall be open to relocation in the same manner as if no location had ever been made.

October 1st.—This day promises to mark an epoch in the history of this Coast. The Bank of California will be opened on the first day of October next, fully prepared to resume business. The Nevada Bank will, it is understood, be prepared to open its doors at the same time. The San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board will not resume operations until the opening of the above mentioned banks.

San Francisco is to have a new evening paper.

The trout is, compared with every other English river fish, exceedingly swift and keen sighted, and this peculiarity is shown in its mode of seizing its prey. The so-called coarse fish, the dace, roach and chub, hang about in shoals in mid water, or nearer the top than the bottom of the river; and when they feed on flies they lift themselves in a somewhat leisurely, and as it were, meditative way to the surface, and suck in the insect in a particularly sure and deadly way. If that fly happens to be artificial and to conceal a barbed hook, the very determined manner in which it is seized, and in which the fish slowly turns and sinks below the surface, ensures its being firmly implanted in the leathery jaws of the dace, hui or roach. It is hardly necessary for the "angler" to strike—to give that slight turn of the wrist on which so much depends in fly-fishing for trout. Very different is it with the trout. He seldom disports himself in mid water. He is serious, and not, like the so-called "coarse fish," a gregarious animal. He loves concealment, he loves solitude. He lurks at the bottom, in the shelter of some tree root or stone, or hides from the sun in the deep shadow of a hollow bank. He loves the rush and swirl of a strong current; and his strength will hold him poised with hardly a movement of his muscular tail fin, in a rapid that would sweep a weaker fish down stream in a moment. In such haunts he waits and watches for his prey as it comes hurrying past him in the running water. He is not particular as to what it is, provided it be only animal food, he professes it if it has life and movement in it; he finds his prey among the teeming insect life of the river itself, among the larvae of the innumerable kinds of Ephemera and Phryganidae, the creepers and water crickets, and among the May flies and stone flies into which these creatures develop. He devours the loach, and the bullhead, and the minnow, the young of every fish that swims, the fresh water shrimps, and even the water beetles; nor does he neglect the waifs and strays of his native stream, its varied jettam and flotsam, the caterpillars and tree insects that are shaken by the wind off the tree branches on the bank, and the worms and slugs that are swept down in flood time from the meadows. From his hiding place his keen glance catches sight of every insect swept past him in the eddy, of the tiniest minnow swimming through the broken water; and he darts with a rush too quick sometimes for the human eye to follow, often through several yards of water to seize his prey. His rush is impetuous and his haste will sometimes cause him, when he has detected the artificial nature of the bait, to strike against it and, become pierced with the hook—to be "hooked foul," as the anglers say. Oftener he stops in time, and refuses to take the bait. This keen sight of the trout, and the distance from which his rush is often made, are one of the first lessons the angler has to learn.—The New York Arctur Magazine.

George C. Perkins.

The following well-merited compliment is paid the Hon. George C. Perkins, of San Francisco, Cal., by the Resources of California: George C. Perkins, at the tender age of twelve years, ran away from home and went on board a ship, and for five years he traversed the briny deep, as a cabin boy and before the mast, making seven voyages to Europe and several to other parts of the world. On arriving at San Francisco he felt a desire to see gold mines of California. He went by boat to Sacramento, then with his blankets on his back he trudged his way on foot, over eighty miles, to Oroville, then one of the richest placer mining districts in the State. He was now seventeen years old, a lone sailor boy in a mining camp in California. He first wheeled dirt to the sluices for washing gold, then drove an express wagon, then found a place in Mr. Knight's store, which he ultimately bought out, and from this establishment sprang the great house of Geo. C. Perkins. Three years since he connected himself with Captains Goodall and Nelson and formed the firm of the great steamship company of Goodall, Nelson & Perkins, which has since required the presence of Mr. Perkins in San Francisco. About the beginning of 1875 he removed to San Francisco. The house in Oroville is now Perkins, Logan & Co. Mr. Perkins has large mining interests in Butte county, owns several quartz mills, a ranch of 4,000 acres in Butte county, on which are 7,000 sheep, owns one-half of the stock of the Bank of Butte County, at Chico, of which he was president for two years, besides his interest in the steamship company. He represented Butte county six years in the State Senate, was elected each time by an increased majority, the first time being less than thirty years of age, and receiving the last time two-thirds of the vote of the county, and that, too, when his party was in the minority, so great was his popularity. Mr. Perkins is to-day worth nearly $400,000 and is not quite thirty-seven years of age. This is another of California's very bright examples of success.

We received by mail yesterday morning a copy of the "Matrimonial Bazar," published in Chicago in which we find several columns of advertisements from love-sick "spoonies" who ought to be confined in an insane asylum. To show their silliness we append a few:

Will some bachelor, who is tired of single life write me a letter every day until his heart begins to speak, and if mine responds he shall have my fortune of over a hundred thousand, encumbered only by one hundred and twenty-five pounds.

Wanted immediately—a wife, she must be young, plump and have some accomplishments. I am 30 years old, able to maintain and make some one happy.

Will some young take pity on me and write a few lines to A. L. Wallace. Will exchange photographs if agreeable.

If this should meet the eye of a modest, refined young lady, without incumbrance, who desires the acquaintance of a gentleman in moderate circumstances, please address Box 103.

I want a wife and will marry any woman not over 35 years of age, who has in her name $8,000 or more and no questions asked. I am 5 ft. 7 in. high, and well built.

I am a New England girl, 18 years of age, full of life and happiness, and not so homely as I might be, and people who have very little taste call me pretty. Address Miss Jessie, care editor. If some young man don't answer this soon, I shall die of lockjaw.

Don't MURDER THE QUAILS.—Although the restrictions of the game law have expired, hunters should remember that a special exemption was made by the Legislature in favor of the quail. Sportsmen do not seem to be aware that it is unlawful to shoot quail at any season of the year, but kill them whenever they can get an opportunity. A number of quail were imported from California about two years ago at considerable expense for the purpose of stocking the hills about town. They multiply very rapidly, and in a few years hunting them would afford fine sport for everybody. But they are being rapidly thinned out, to the great disappointment of the gentlemen who took the trouble to introduce them. Early last winter two men discovered their retreat at a spring about five miles northeast of town, and commenced an indiscriminate slaughter of the birds. They were shot on the ground by these men, who followed up their amusement for several days and then came to town and boasted of their wonderful achievement. Day before yesterday a man was seen bringing a number of dead quail into town in his game bag. He evidently did not know of the existence of the special law protecting the birds. It is important that all sportsmen should be informed on the subject, and that the provisions of the law be rigidly enforced.—Carson Appeal, 10th.

The people of Los Angeles are already beginning to feel the benefit of Senator Jones' enterprise. The Southern Pacific Railroad announces a reduction of passenger rates from $2.50 to 50 cents. Passengers for Los Angeles getting off the steamer at Santa Monica will reach Los Angeles five hours earlier than those who land at San Pedro, and the passenger for San Francisco who chooses the Santa Monica route can remain at Los Angeles five hours later and get to San Francisco at the same time as the passage by San Pedro. This is an advantage which nothing can overcome, say the San Francisco Post.

Shut Down.—On account of the improvements that are now in operation in the Truckee River between Truckee and Lake Tahoe, the water has been shut into the lake by Von Schmidt's dam. This measure was required to allow the workmen to put necessary dams in the stream several miles up the river. The usual flow of water will be let out next Monday. In consequence of the shutting off of the water the Truckee Lumber company have shut down both their saw mill and their factory. The factory will not be started up again until about the middle of next week, which will allow time for repairs in some of their machinery.

The Grand Lodge of the United States of I. O. O. F. holds its session in Indianapolis, Indiana, commencing the 20th day of this month. T. V. Julian, of Wiconemec, represents Nevada.

The Belcher Company discharged about eighty hands on Saturday last. About 2,000 tons of ore have accumulated at the mills on the Carson river, on account of low water, and rendered this course necessary.

A. T. Stewart's income: $3,000,000 a year.

After copying the remarks of the JOURNAL made a few days ago in regard to sagebrush lands the Carson Valley News, a lively little weekly paper published at Genoa, comments as follows:

The same is found to be the case in Carson Valley. The only obstacle in the way of doubling the amount of agricultural land in this county is the lack of water. We have heretofore referred to the great number of wind-mills on the California plains, working with perfect success and irrigating hundreds of acres of land that it would be impossible to do in any other way. Now the question arises why cannot the farmers in the valley of Nevada do the same? There is no lack of water a few feet below the surface and no lack of wind power if only properly applied to raise it to the surface. We have never heard of an instance where sagebrush land when cleared and properly irrigated and cultivated failed to yield abundant crops, and it really seems too bad to see hundreds of acres of such land producing nothing but worthless sagebrush when it might be yielding an industrious owner a handsome profit and the State and county a large revenue. We confidently look forward to time not far distant when the products and population of Douglas county will be double what it is to-day.

Among the employees of the Sutro Tunnel is a young man named Banks, son of General N. P. Banks of Massachusetts. He holds the post of assistant engineer.

District Court.

The following is the proceedings of the District Court of the 14th, Judge Wright presiding.

The forenoon of the day was occupied in trying the case of the State against James Buck indicted for an assault to do bodily injury upon Chanancy Reed, in which the jury found a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment. The prisoner was ordered to appear Friday next for judgment.

The cases of Ah You and Ah Bau, charged with jail breaking, occupied the afternoon.

WADSWORTH THE FAVORITE.—About two years since, the citizens of Carson subscribed $15,000 or $20,000 for the building of a wagon road from that city to Columbus. After the road was finished, teamsters refused to travel it, preferring the one from Wadsworth. Now the people of Dayton, in order to secure the travel and freighting business for Columbus through their town have subscribed $2,000 to aid in the building of a wagon road. The distance from Dayton to Columbus, over the proposed new route, may be shortened, but, as in the case of the Carson road, teamsters claim that they will still favor the Wadsworth route, as the projected road will be too mountainous to haul full loads over.

OUR MARKETS.—To go along our streets and look at the different fruit and vegetable stands, is a genuine treat—a feast to the eyes. In vegetables, we have a fine assortment, but when it comes to fruit it isn't every place that can show such tempting varieties as we see here every day. In peaches we have the white and yellow; in plums, there are blue and purple and red and yellow; in grapes, all kinds of colors; pears, luscious and juicy, apples, (till a promologist would go crazy if he tried to name all the varieties,) water melons, musk melons, and cantaloupes.

While we have sufficient restaurant accommodations for all who come here during the Fair, there has always been a scarcity of sleeping accommodations. Last year a large number were accommodated with rooms in private houses, which was very satisfactory to visitors, and as the number of visitors this year will be much larger than last, it will be necessary for the people to provide similar means of lodging them. Those who can spare a room or two during the Fair should make the fact known as soon as possible.

STUNG.—Yesterday B. B. Norton, assisted Mr. Sanders to transfer three hives of bees to the Champion Bee Hive. The veil over his face was not close enough to keep them all out, so that a few insinuated themselves inside and stung him. He pulled off his hat and veil and went for them. The insects were game and returned to the fray with vigor. Just look at Norton's head if you don't believe it. The bees were lived.

NEW HOUSE.—Our friend Charley Stoddard is building unto himself a residence opposite the V. & T. depot, on Plaza street. Charley has secured one of Reno's best and fairest daughters and now wants to have a nice cage to put her in, all of which is correct.

The Board of Equalization will meet on Monday, September 20th, and continue in session from time to time until the business of equalization, presented to them, is disposed of.

A CRAACKED PAKE.—Yesterday afternoon while the emigrant train was standing at the depot a woman began to make considerable noise and abused the Conductor and the Railroad Company in very certain terms. It seems that she had bought a ticket from the East to San Francisco, but had had her baggage checked to Reno. The Conductor took her ticket and hence the row. Several men, who were emigrating, took her part and were going to shoot her in torrents if that ticket was not refunded. One of them was particularly fierce and made many threatening demonstrations. A policeman who happened near asked him why he made so much noise and he received a very sane answer, from the emigrant, who made a motion as if to draw a pistol. He received a quietus in the shape of a "billy" on the side of the head, which made the claret fly. This cooled the heated individual and he gladly went off on the train. The ticket was not forthcoming, however.

LAUNDRY NEEDED BADLY.—One of the greatest needs of Reno at the present time is a good laundry. Of course we have several China concerns which are warranted to tear up more clothes at one washing than a person can wear out in three months, to say nothing of the buttons that are missing; but we need a good white laundry, one at which a person can have his clothes washed clean and not torn up and mended with stitches half an inch long, like our's were this week. If a white man was to build a good laundry he could do a big business. In fact we believe he would monopolize the whole business. Water is plenty and the citizens would rally around such an enterprise. Here is an opening for some one to make money, and free the community from this branch of Chinese cheap labor, which is a fraud on general principles.

STATISTICS.—We give below the correct and complete number of people in Washoe county, together with the number of dwellings and families in the different towns. These figures are the totals obtained from the Assessor's books. It will be handy for reference:

GONE.—Rev. E. C. Arnold left last night on No. 2, for California. His wife and child went to Ohio yesterday morning and now he leaves to attend the session of the California Conference which commences in San Francisco to-morrow morning. Quite a number of friends were at the train last night to give him a farewell shake of the hand and to wish him success. He thinks he will enter the ministry again.

BEAUTIFUL.—Moonlight nights now, and they are delightful. We might get poetical and tell about ethereal beauties, balmy zephyrs and feathery clouds but we forbear. We have noticed, however, that the young people have found out about the moonlight and patronize it seven nights a week and then wish there were eight.

TO THE FARM.—The people of Nevada, especially of the western portion, are passing through Reno in large numbers, en route for the California State Fair. The reduction of one-third from regular rates by the O. P. R. R. no doubt has induced more to attend than would otherwise have done so. The Nevada State Fair comes next and we will give them another treat.

AGENCY.—Mr. W. Sanders has been appointed the agent for the Champion Bee Hive. He will transfer bees from the old hives into the new ones. They are an improvement on all others and have only to be seen to be appreciated. He will have a stock on hand always.

SELLING OFF AT COST.—Mrs. M. Nerley offers her entire stock of goods for sale, at cost, for cash. The ladies of Reno and vicinity will do well to call early and secure bargains, which will be had for cash.

More Goods.—M. Nathan, our popular clothier has a good stock of goods on hand all the time and to look at the heavily laden shelves it would seem as if he had everything, but he is not satisfied with it, and so has gone below to lay in another invoice of goods. When they arrive you may well stare, for they will be gay.

SENTENCED.—Yesterday Michael Stratford was brought down from Washoe City and lodged in the County Jail, where he will reside for three months. He had a hankering after a package in the express office at Washoe. Judge Power did not like that way of doing things and so gives the county a boarder for three months.

JOHN SUNDENLAND STILL AHEAD.—John Sundenland has just returned from San Francisco with the largest and best selected stock of boots and shoes ever brought to Reno. He has goods to suit all prices and all people. He has a fine assortment of children's school shoes, which give more satisfaction than any shoe ever brought to this town. He is selling boots and shoes at panic prices. Call at his store and examine for yourself. He has also on hand and for sale, a fine assortment of shoemaker's findings, which he offers to the trade at a small advance over San Francisco prices.

REMOVED.—The Misses Vance are now located on Virginia street, next door to the photograph gallery. They will receive at their dressmaking establishment and make to order in the latest styles, all kinds of plain and fancy sewing.

NOTICE.—Mr. Nels. Greenman is no longer our authorized agent. Our patrons will govern themselves accordingly. S. L. & Co.

MEADOW LAKE.—An old Quineyite writing from this place to the Plumas National, gives a hopeful outlook for the mines. He says: "There is but few people here at the present time, but most of them are at work on their locations. We hardly expect to accomplish anything this season, but want to get things in as good shape as possible for next Spring, when we expect things to 'howl' here again, as in former days. The ore is here and in paying quantities, and there is but little doubt that we shall have a good, cheap, practicable process of reduction. We expect to get returns from Prof. Fryer in a few days, and the future of Meadow Lake will depend very much on his report."

The following figures will be found to be within two or three hundred of those contained in the Assessor's report: Virginia—including the people in the canyons east of town, North Virginia, and two or three ranches on the Truckee Meadows, 13,866; Gold Hill, 6,080. Total, 19,946.
